

Daily Democrat.

TERMS OF DAILY DEMOCRAT TO THE COUNTRY.

One Year. $5.00
Six Months. 3.00
Three Months. 1.50
One Month. .50
No subscription taken for less than one month.

Subscribers, whose papers are discontinued when the mail facilities were cut off in Southern Kentucky and Tennessee, can obtain them now by giving us notice when they needed them and where they now wish them forwarded for the time paid for.

For Judge of Court of Appeals,
R. K. WILLIAMS,
OF GRAVES COUNTY.

District composed of Allen, Butler, Breckinridge, Ballard, Caldwell, Callaway, Christian, Clinton, Dade, Edmonson, Fulton, Graves, Grayson, Hancock, Hickman, Henderson, Hopkins, Livingston, Lyon, Logan, Marshall, McCracken, Muhlenberg, Nelson, Ohio, Simpson, Todd, Trigg, Union, Warren, and Webster.

What a picture of oppression and distress this unjustifiable rebellion presents! It began with the most alluring promises. No bubble bank, with a capital pretended to be paid up, amounting to figures enough to fill up a column, ever tempted the unwary with more plausible-deceitful shows. The imagination was crowded with gorgeous pictures of a Southern Republic, colored with the golden glories of the South. In a dream, the plowshare turned up jewels and gold, and luscious vines drooped in bowls from the trees. Oyster pates, fried chicken, and beef à la mode were cultivated in the kitchen gardens; and, instead of flowers, shrublets, cream, and blanc mange, in all the delicate hues and shapes of flowers, hung from the bushes in ornamental beds. The very air that breathed around them no more in idle murmurs fanned away, but whistled Dixie to the tinkling ears of the Southern Republic. Not only nature, but art, was made to seem just as perfect. Navies would spring up of themselves, and soon the air, no longer the forbidding element, conquered by the wisdom of the Southern Government, would bear its burthen of gay-colored balloons, as common as buggies are now, and the chained and guided lightning would sweep car-loads of this happy people from one end to the other of their blissful Arcadia.

Laws more perfect than those given on the sacred mountain would be given to a people more perfect than the chosen race. Everywhere justice, temperance, and moderation—a millennium of human happiness. There was to be no more punishment, for there would be no more crime; and the perfect bliss that Adam and his fair bride Eve awakened to in the Garden of Eden, was to be restored to the earth by Jeff. Davis and Beauregard.

These, or more selfish and groveling promises, aroused the desires of the youth of the South, and urged them to arms. It was to accomplish some such unattainable end as this that the nobler spirits of the South were brought into action. To the multitude of baser metal, more sordid and animal promises were made and lower passions aroused. The gull trap was set with baits of all kinds, for it aimed to catch all sorts of fish, that they might serve to fill the insatiable appetite for power which continually gnawed in the hearts of the ambitious leaders in the South.

We have lived to see the end of these promises—lived to see them turn, like Dead Sea fruit, to ashes on the lips.

Instead of that unbounded agricultural prosperity which was to pour the wealth of the world into her lap, the South has lost the very staple upon which she counted upon to produce it. Like the maid in the spelling-book story, who was to sell her eggs to buy a beautiful silk, the Southern eggs have all tumbled to the ground; and no one has yet discovered how to mend a broken egg. Now Mr. Yancy, who told us a little over a year ago that cotton was king, tells us that cotton is not king, and its cultivation in the South is from the necessity of war abandoned. That is the first fulfillment of their promises. The very corner-stone of the temple is removed. The protection of slavery was another high-sounding promise, and Mr. Stephens called it the basis of a homogeneous republic. Well, slave property was never more insecure in the revolted States than at present. This is confessed. The commerce of the world, for more than a year, has been cut off. They have no ships, and nothing to sell if they had them.

These, however, while they show the impossibility of their national success, do not lift up the veil that hides the revolting scenes of individual misery and depravity. Their cities, according to their own accounts, are as vile as Sodom. Squalid misery and riotous debauches prevail. In one alone we hear of twenty-four hundred orphans, homeless and homeless. In their capital we hear of soldiers riotous and disobedient; of the people rebellious and dissatisfied.

A conscription has robbed homes of their last defenders, and just in the busy season taken the laborer from the plow. The burthen of it does not fall upon the rich, who own slaves who can cultivate their fields in their absence, but upon the poor man, who has no help. He is dragged from his wife and children, knowing that he leaves them to starvation or worse.

If we could see, at one glance, the whole misery produced by this war, we would shudder and hide our eyes in horror. If we could see that vulture government preying upon the vitals of the living South, chained to despotism, still more would we urge to burst those galling chains and set the captive free.

It is said the money taken from the protection of the Consul at New Orleans, by General Butler, had been restamped, so as to appear as Mexican coin. An examination by the microscope shows, underneath the impression of the Mexican die, plain proof that the coin was originally from the United States mint; and is, probably, the proceeds of the Confed. robbery at New Orleans.

The Richmond Examiner doesn't think the taking of New Orleans and the reopening of the Mississippi any great things after all. Get along with your old cannon, not going to be much of a shower after all.

The Richmond papers are trying to amuse themselves at the expense of Halleck. They exult in the fact that Beauregard skedaddled and escaped Halleck. The latter intended to capture him and his army; but waked up to find him gone out of reach, and was puzzled to find whether he had gone. It is well to put the best face on a bad case; but an impartial observer would ask what Beauregard came to Corinth for, if the intention was to run away. If he displayed generalship in skedaddling from Corinth, he would have shown more by not coming there at first. Beauregard can magnify the exploit by getting out of the way till he reaches the Gulf, and consummate it by getting into Mexico. If the Confeds are pleased, the rest of mankind need not be displeased.

We publish the proceedings of a large meeting in Owen county with pleasure. They are all that can be asked of the good citizens of Kentucky. Let all stand up to them and we shall have peace and prosperity in this State. We hope that the people of all parties in this State will follow the good example. Owen has been in bad repute, more owing, no doubt, to the ill-conduct of a few persons, than to the people there; and, perhaps, to some who do not belong to that county. All loyal men will read the resolutions with a great deal of pleasure.

Stonewall Jackson has performed a brilliant exploit in the Valley of Virginia. His advance and his retreat were disastrous to the Federal forces under Banks and Fremont. There has been a most culpable lack of generalship on our side in that region. Can't the Administration find a General to supersede the pathfinder, whose chief mission is to lose by his incompetency what others win? We have plenty of men whose generalship has been tested, and don't need these sacrifices to the ambition of a faction.

Several of our friends wish to know more of the record of Vallandigham on the war. We don't approve all his acts, but we do say he is a Union man, and no Secessionist; that he has been so uniformly and persistently. He has voted against and opposed all radicalism. That he is putting down this rebellion; and that his constituents at home, who support him, are for it, there is no doubt. We shall take the trouble to give his votes on this subject, and our opinion is, he will be found a better Union man than those who abuse him.

Calvin Sanders, a Secessionist of Shelby county, was required to take the oath and give bond in the sum of ten thousand dollars the other day. Let all who are enjoying the blessings and protection of the Government, who are sympathizing with and aiding the rebellion, be required to do likewise, or at once be furnished with a pass below our lines, and required to remain there.

The Confeds are burning up their King to convince the world that he is indispensable. The world, however, got along before King Cotton made any pretensions to royalty. He is more important to the South than other people, and they are burning him up. They are in a fair way to convince the world that their King is of no account to anybody.

Last Moments of Albert Sidney Johnston.

The following is from the diary, published in the Natchez Courier, of Major D. M. Hayden, one of Gen. Johnston's aids, giving an account of his death on the field of Shiloh: General Johnston, elated with the entire success of the whole day, took the position before the brigades of Bowen and Breckinridge, and gave the order, "Go bayonets!" The last moment I saw him, before his fall, he was hurrying his troops. The charge was made with a shout, and the enemy fled in confusion. I was by the side of Bowen, and the main battle flew so close that they clipped his hair. I started to the right to see what had become of Chalmers, when I met Captain O'Hare, who announced that General Johnston was wounded. We followed him down into the ravine, where we found him reclining in the lap of Governor Harris, who had gently lifted him from his horse. I was told that the only last words he ever spoke were, "My beloved wife, I believe I am seriously wounded." Preston, in an agony of grief, threw his arms around him, and called aloud and asked if he knew him. I caught hold of his hand and saw that he was still breathing. We administered a little stimulant, but he was totally unconscious, and quietly breathed his last at half-past two.

LAMESTAMP ACCIDENT.—On Monday evening last, as Mr. Lewis J. Ford and his youthful bride were returning to their residence at Midway, from Georgetown, Ky., in a buggy, the horse they were driving took fright near Elkton creek, and dashed off at a furious pace. Coming to the creek he rushed in, the buggy was capsized, throwing both its occupants out, and Mrs. Ford was drowned. Mr. Ford was rescued from a watery grave by a gentleman who happened to pass along just in time to save him. The deceased was only about fifteen years old, had been married but four months, and her melancholy fate is deeply lamented by a large circle of devoted relatives and warmly attached friends.

It is said that Vincent Colyer is the renowned medical artist man who was badgered by the police in almost every city in the Union years ago. His present vocation of mischief-making under pretence of negro teaching, is even worse than his former one. He is a fine individual to teach the black idea to shoot.—Boston Post.

Perhaps he is preparing to exhibit ebony statues.

There was a distressing report in Mayville a few days since that five members of Captain Lewman's company, from Fleming county, were recently drowned in the Big Sandy river. They were moving the stores from Pikeston to Prestonsburg, when the boat capsized and the men were drowned before succor could reach them.

We learn from the Paris Citizen that in the neighborhood of Dr. Noah S. Moore and Mr. Thomas Wilson, in Bourbon county, a mad dog has been doing great mischief. Horses, cattle and hogs have been bitten, which the owners have had to kill.

A paragraph has been going about the rounds of the press that John G. Noble, former editor of the Paducah (speech) Herald, had reported himself to the military authorities of Lexington. This is not so.

There were some errors in the following beautiful lines, from a favorite contributor, on Sunday morning; hence we republish the piece this morning in a corrected form:

[For the Louisville Democrat.]

B E R E F T.

BY LIZZIE CONWELL SMITH.

I have gone through dark paths, where griefs, like
"Lay coiled around, to stoke my heart, till there
Were wrong from such fierce agony as makes
One bitter moment seem a thousand years!
And yet I live.

Once, when the sun sent rifts of arrowy gold
Through morning's pale—like a smile of God
Rayed world-wide light on the world's face,
Of grove-damp rising from a burial cold
And, shuddering, lived.

I laid warm lips against a mortal, whereon,
For all, the tenderness of smiling grew,
And found it like a frozen smile, anon
To love's life-search, for all the world might do.
And yet I lived.

I laid my head upon a heart, that morn,
Whose pulses had rocked me to my earliest sleep,
And found it stiff, and cold, "Why am I born,
To be bereft henceforth? Alone, to weep!
Alone to live!"

They told me, that smile so deathly sweet;
They told the dust on that beloved head;
I saw the greedy earth yawn at my feet,
They gave her to the dead, and called her—dead!
And, alone to live!

She snuggled down, the willing autumn wind
Strewed red leaves over her, like drops of blood;
I cried, "Oh! God, be pitiful, be kind!
Vouchsafe to my torn heart, some balm of good.
Help me to live!"

I walk the earth, with homelike step, and cry,
And whisper, "Dear, be patient! Heaven hath light,
The heart's true language: But, from unseen skies,
I feel her love about me all the years.
And I can live.

And sometimes, as I awake of night,
She talks to me, as sweet she used to do,
And whispers, "Dear, be patient! Heaven hath light,
Along the wayside, burling for you.
Reach them and live."

I. A. F. COLLEGE, NEW ALBANY, IND., JUNE, 1862.

(Correspondence of the Louisville Democrat.)

Recruiting for Colonel Metcalfe's Cavalry.

MUNFORDVILLE, Ky., June 18, 1862.

Editors Democrat—Gentlemen: The quiet monotony which for so long a time had settled upon our people in regard to the war, and the matters connected with the military operations of the country, is for the time relieved.

The Military Board for the State having been authorized by the War Department to raise an additional regiment of cavalry in the State, the bold and intrepid patriot, Col. Leonidas Metcalfe, of Nicholas, was intrusted with the organization and will command the regiment, and present to the War Department a full and complete organization of a crack corps.

It is desired that this regiment shall be one of the very best in the service, as the which will be assigned to the vanguard of our State of the marauders which infest and threaten its peace, will require the exercise of the greatest judgment, caution and courage, and to this end it is important that not only the colonel and other field officers be men of the best material, but also the company commanders, as well as the "rank and file." Impressed with this fact, Col. Geo. T. Wood, of the Military Board, proposed to Capt. Knight, Jr., of our town, to organize a company for the regiment, who promptly agreed to undertake the work and forthwith commenced recruiting. In two days he has secured fifty old names and, in a very short time, have completed and ready for the service a company from Hart county, which will undoubtedly do honor to the county and to the State.

If all the companies in the regiment be commanded by as gallant officers and composed of as true men as Capt. Knight's, no Kentuckian will ever have cause to blush on account of its action.

Will not the patriotic ladies of Hart county prepare and present to Capt. Knight and his band of patriots a fitting banner, with injunction that in the hour of danger they look upon it and remember that the prayers of fair friends at home are with them, and that they earnestly desire their safety, yet they prefer that each one of them should meet an honorable death upon the battle-field to safety secured by cowardice? Let them do this, and your correspondent will be glad to certify that the regiment will be obeyed, and the flag borne proudly amidst the wildest scenes of carnage in which our boys may be thrown.

D.

Union Meeting in Oldham County.

LA GRANGE, June 17, 1862.

Editors Democrat—Gentlemen: The Union delegates selected by the various precincts in the county, on the 14th inst., convened in the Courthouse, on the 16th inst., to select candidates for the various offices in the county.

On motion, Richard Waters, Esq., was appointed Chairman, and M. Demoss and H. L. Owens, Secretaries.

After tedious balloting among the various candidates, the following gentlemen were unanimously nominated by the delegates for the offices annexed to their names, viz:

For County Judge—T. A. Rodman.
For County Clerk—W. C. Oldham.
For Circuit Clerk—W. C. Mahan.
For Sheriff—W. H. Maize.
For Attorney—W. H. Carroll.
For Jailor—W. M. Waide.
For Assessor—R. S. Wells.
For Coroner—Robt. Bell.

On motion, the thanks of the Convention were given to T. M. Barbour, Esq., for his patriotic course in support of the Union cause.

The thanks of the Convention were then tendered to R. Waters, Esq., for his patience, courtesy, and impartiality manifested as Chairman.

It was then moved and seconded that the Louisville Journal and Democrat be requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting, &c.

RICHARD WATERS, Chairman.
M. DEMOSS, H. L. OWENS, Secretaries.

(For the Louisville Democrat.)

Sergeant J. W. Fisher, who was so sneakingly assassinated near Monterey, Owen county, Ky., was the son and only child of J. W. Fisher, of this county. He was about twenty-nine years of age, and leaves a wife and four helpless children, as well as many other friends, to mourn his untimely death. God grant them, and especially the dear wife and little ones, fortitude and courage to stand up under their sad bereavement.

The writer has been acquainted with the deceased from his infancy. He was a dutiful son, a loving husband, a kind father and a high-minded, honorable gentleman and soldier. None could higher in the estimation of our country than did Sergeant Fisher, and in our nine or ten months' service we haven't heard one disrespectful word of him.

To his numerous friends we, as a company, tender our heartfelt sympathy, and to those leaders of Owen who showed him such marked respect, we would say, in the language of his aged father, with streaming eyes, "God bless them; I will never forget them."

E. P. F.

Union Meeting in Owen County.

OWEN TOWN, June 16, 1862.

At a public meeting, unusually large, of the citizens of Owen county, held at the Courthouse on Wednesday, Benjamin Haydon was called to the chair, and W. H. Sanford elected secretary. The Hon. E. F. Nuttall highly entertained the large assembly in a speech of some half hour's length. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee to draft resolutions, who, after retiring, reported the following, which were adopted separately and unanimously, except the second, to which there was one, and only one, dissenting voice.

Resolved, That the State of Kentucky is still in our eyes, as citizens of the State of Owen county we owe our allegiance to the Government of the United States, the State of Kentucky, and the laws passed in obedience thereto.

2. That it is the duty of every citizen of Owen county, when called on, to aid any officer of the United States, or other person acting under its authority, in the execution of all orders, civil or military.

3. That we hereby solemnly pledge ourselves that we will not aid or assist any person in going to or from the Confederate army, nor will we advise any person to join the same.

4. That we pledge ourselves at all times, and in every necessary and suitable manner, to contribute either men or means to suppress all encampments of enemies to the United States within the borders of this county, and to aid in the execution of the laws made, who will join the forces of the United States to capture, kill or expel them from our borders.

5. That the formation of guerrilla parties in this county is in opposition to the moral sense of every right-minded man in our community, and we appeal earnestly and imploringly to every citizen to exert all his influence and power to crush out all such designs.

6. That F. Brown, G. Garnett, E. F. Nuttall, J. H. Ritaly, W. A. Sanford, H. L. Moore, W. R. Roberts, Wm. Teal and T. W. Smith, be, and are hereby appointed, a committee to meet on the 17th inst., at the military authorities at Louisville, Ky., to release all the citizens of Owen, who, imprisoned there, upon their taking the oath of allegiance and executing such bond as the military authorities may require, to be consistent with propriety and safety to the county.

7. That the Louisville Democrat and Journal are respectfully asked to publish these proceedings.

The meeting was then favored with a short speech from Hon. Thos. A. Berryman, and, on motion, adjourned.

BENJ. HAYDON, Chairman.
W. H. SANFORD, Secretary.

Before Richmond.—One of the editors of the Tribune, Mr. Wilkinson, writing from the "Seven Pines," speaks in regard to General McClellan as follows:

If I could go back for three or four months, with the advantages of my present position, I would not hesitate to urge the policy of strengthening McClellan. I know now that this policy was wise. The division of armies and multiplication of commands has ever been a rot in the vigor of an army. It is a well-known fact in the science of which he was a master, it was the concentration of forces, and the striking an enemy with overwhelming numbers, or with a rapidity of successive blows that have broken through the ranks of the enemy, and have been economical, humane and politic to have given to McClellan all the disposable troops north and west of the Ohio, when he commenced the invasion of Virginia. He could have broken through the center of the peninsula defense stretching from Yorktown to Lee's Mills—have saved the time lost in the siege preparations before Yorktown—have overwhelmed the fugitive enemy on the road and in their imperfectly occupied defenses at Williamsburg—have chased them right up to Richmond, if he did not scatter them forever right and left of the way, and would have spent in the capital city of the rebel, the money which he had expended in weary weeks waste in an unequal struggle with the rain and mud of the peninsula swamps, and would have kept in life and health, under Richmond's sheltering roof, the brave and patriotic soldiers who have been sickened and died in the unhealthy and overworked country that a civilized army ever operated in. The past is gone. But the present is with us, and if we will not rectify the mistake of the past, we will not rectify the mistake of McClellan, in God's name let it be so used, and used on the instant!

It is a wonder that the Tribune would publish such a letter, so bitter is it in its hostility to McClellan.

A correspondent of the Louisville Journal, dated his letter at Huntsville, and signing himself "Impartial," states that the Shelby News published a notice of the recent gallant affair at Winchester, Tenn., giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against Col. Pope for issuing it. If "Impartial" is so temperate as to rule at the order of the Colonel, complimenting the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder, giving all the credit for the success of the affair to Companies A and B of the 15th Kentucky Regiment, to the injustice of the other troops engaged. The Shelby News then went on to say that the gallant boys of Companies A and B, who were the order of Col. Pope, complimenting the detachments engaged at Winchester, and in going so, mentioned that amongst those who were the order of Col. Pope, were the gallant boys of Companies Taylor and Snyder—Companies A and B. We received the order of Col. Pope in manuscript from the Adjutant, and have no doubt of its genuineness, which looks like a stolen copy.

If "Impartial" has any fault to find or spite to spit about the order he should utter his complaints against

PAWAHA SALT AGENCY,
T. L. JEFFERSON,
 northeast corner of Market and First streets,
 HAVE CONSTANTLY ON HAND A SUPPLY
 of Pawaha Salt at manufacturers' prices. a37